Our strength comes from each other. Come join us...

The Family Support Group program was established throughout the country to link patients and their families to a place where information, education, and feelings can be shared in a comfortable and caring environment. Family Support Groups are for individuals affected by blood cancer, their family members and friends, and are FREE.

All of our Family Support Groups are facilitated by credentialed health/mental health professionals who have extensive oncology and group work experience. They are prepared to handle sensitive issues such as treatment questions, loss, guilt and family topics. Patients, family members and caregivers are invited to attend.
